Statement of Purpose:

I Coach and Facilitate leadership teams by helping people to work passionately well together. To contribute to success and happiness.

About me:

Stephen Garber, CEO of Third Level, is a strategic advisor and coach to CEOs and executive teams. He engages in large scale transformation projects across the U.S. and internationally. Driven by a relentless passion to help business leaders achieving their goals in both business and life, Stephen has coached clients across a wide range of industries. Industries included are IT transformation projects, financial services, real estate, construction, and health care. Stephen strives to help their teams be fully engaged, passionate and successful.

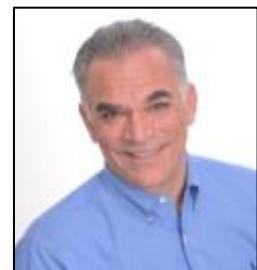

Stephen challenges people to approach things in a more positive and productive manner in areas needed for growth. He achieves this through using and teaching his own unique brand of Applied Emotional Intelligence. The goal is to minimize impediments to personal, team, and business success. Stephen's work as an executive coach, leadership strategist, speaker and author has lead him to be known as a charismatic and engaging thought leader. He successfully identifies and implements the behaviors executives can adopt to lead them to their greatest success.

Testimonials

Richard Lumb, Group Chief Executive - Financial Services Accenture - Stephen Garber and Third Level have been coaching our senior executives and senior managers both individually and in teams since 2004. They have shown a good grasp of our business and people development objectives and successfully helped us to achieve them through coaching skills and outstanding team facilitation. While emotional intelligence may seem to many like a soft skill frill, we have found the unusually grounded applied Emotional Intelligence Approach Third Level brings to be of value to raising individual and team performance – and very helpful with client relations. We've very gainfully employed Stephen and his team with both geographic management and teams leading very large projects – with great success and benefit.”

Nick Williams, Managing Director – Digital, Lloyds Banking Group - I'm a better leader, husband and father as a result of the work I do with Stephen. I've engaged the programme with multiple teams over 12 years, and we continue to generate exceptional business results. I see the programme as my gift for all those who I've worked with and led. Without exception, they feel much better about themselves and the world they live in - delivering measurable business improvement through engagement as inspiring leaders of high-performing teams.

Gary Press, Owner and CEO of Lifestyle Management Group - Steve has repeatedly shown an innate talent to quickly capture the attention and build trust with the people in my businesses - particularly those in leadership positions. Once this happens, truths become unlocked and problems become solved. He delivers in an entertaining and engaging fashion that produces creative team work and bottom line profits.

James E. Buckner, CEO, Cuero Medical Clinic - You managed to create a sense of unity among a group of cynical, mistrusting and defensive physicians, and – even more impressive – it is two years later, and the gains from the last visit are still maintained. I appreciate your ability to so quickly understand the desired outcomes and to effectively get to the core issues...and help us work through them. It has been a rewarding experience and an unmitigated success.

Matthew Ladika, CEO, Home Safe - Stephen and his team at Third Level have been a tremendous asset to Home Safe. From day one we have been reaping the benefits of more clarity, effectiveness and enjoyment of our work. Personally, I can't thank him enough for his coaching and expertise. I have grown, and because of that, this agency is in a much better position moving forward.
